

A stylized illustration of a yellow building with a flat roof and a central chimney. The building features several windows: a row of four at the top, a central vertical column of five, and two columns of three on the lower floors. The entrance is a small doorway at the base of the central column. The building is set against a plain white background.